Bishop Doane's Illness.
It is with painful feelings that I have to inform that Bishop Doane is fast sinking under an attack of inflammatory rheumatism, which confined him, on Sunday afternoon, to his residence, er preaching Sunday morning. The disease assumed a different type, called "rheumatic fever," and to-night will decide the suspense which now hangs over River Side and its inmates. Mütter, of Philadelphia, spent last night with him, and this morning he was thought better.— About noon he was able to speak.

BOSTON, NOV. 11, 1843.
The Election in Massachusetts on Monday.
 The interest in politics is kept up here by the that our State election takes place on Monday The voters are not numerous, but

t. The wings are not so sanguine of the result their national success would seem to warrant r being. They fear that the democrats and soliers will unite in many places, and elect nbers of Congress and of the State Legislae; and that something of the kind will take is, very probable, but not immediately, I am opinion. As regards members of Congress, there will not be any election, judging from present appearances, in more than two districts, the 1st and 2d; though it is not absolutely impossible that one no others may elect. Other trials may lead to concerted action between the two branches of the position, and the election of a number of their candidates. In the 5th district, it is not by any means impossible that Charles Allen will be elected Monday: the indignation of the democrats g likely to carry them over to his support, as was the nerve, firmness, and talent sufficient to be a prominent part in that war against the South which the great majority of our democracy avow their determination to wage. On the other side, Rantoul may be supported by the free-soilers, No. 2, in which case he cannot fail of an election.

n. In Fuller's district, there is not so much chance of success to either of the opposing candidates; and in portions of the district, any attempt to form an alliance in support of Frey, would perhaps elect Thompson, the popular whig. The monstrous whig vote in Midsex county, greater even than that cast for Clay 41, is but a poor indication for the Van Burenin that region; and the larger part of Palfrey's strict lies in Middlesex. The Worcester portion it has done grandly for the free soilers; and the ne may be said of the whole county of Worcesthe old "heart of the commonwealth," as it is ctionately called by our people of all parties.

result is all owing to Charles Allen, who is emphatically a man—one of those who make their name public, and carry with them the people the sheer force of their own indomitable will—teaching, to use Napoleon's expression, with the masses of mankind.

Members of our State House of Representatives, it may turn out that many free soilers will be elected in consequence of this, as it will give time for alliances between them and the democrats. I have never seen a more indignant set of men than our democrats at this moment. They appear to have lost sight of the fact that the free soilers are not their enemies, and that the free soilers re injured them quite as much as the South, and ready to give the latter what Gen. Taylor said to have recommended his soldiers to give the Mexicans. How it will all end here, I cannot undertake to say; but as the regular whigs start with certain positive advantages, the chances are favor of their carrying the state government at

Arrival of Winter Weather.
 ANOTHER DARK AND STORMY SABBATH.—At an early

For yesterday morning, the ground was covered with snow to the depth of nearly an inch, and the snow fell thick and fast; about seven o'clock the wind changed to the east, and the snow ceased to fall, but a driving rain in which continued during the whole day. As the night drew on, the storm increased, until the rain

[From the Buffalo Advertiser, Nov. 8.]
A regular old fashioned snow storm sprang up about five o'clock last night, and great fears are entertained for the safety of vessels bound up and down the steamer Lexington was reported ashore this morning at Silver Creek.

The thermometer ranged below freezing point most of the day yesterday.

We have had several days of cold weather, and snow has fallen to the depth of about three inches, altogether; but, so far, ice has not formed, except in the ditches and covers of the canal, where it merely scales the surface. There is no prospect of an immediate

[From the Cleveland Herald, Nov. 7.]
To-day, Nov. 7th, the roofs are white and for the first time this season, and the weather bears quite a wintry aspect.
At Louisville, Cincinnati, Dayton, &c., they had snow on the first inst., sufficient to look quite winterish. East of us, at Ashland, and so along in western Ohio, snow fell to the depth of a foot on the st instant, and back from the lake in Pennsylvania, reached the depth of 18 inches! Pretty stiff beginning, for even old Penn.

Winter seems to be approaching us with its hoary head. For several mornings past we have had killing frosts, and the atmosphere, throughout the day, is bracing.—Anderson C. H., Nov. 3.
